

Abstract of the Disclosure

Nuclear matrix proteins are useful markers for diagnosing and monitoring the stage of malignancy in a cell. Nuclear matrix proteins also are useful targets for the treatment of cell proliferative disorders having a nuclear matrix protein component.